Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

The four Dublin theaters did a splendid business during the month of July.

The Waterford regatta, held July 16, was a decided success, though the weather was very hot.

Andrew O'Shea has been elected President of the East Tipperary Executive of the United Irish League.

The latest Dublin exchanges say there is a hopeful prospect of an amicable settlement of the quay labor disputes. The strike has affected a large number of Dublin laborers.

Despite the fact that it was held in the wilds of Mayo, the Hollymount horse show was far and away the greatest that has taken place in the West of Ireland. Lindsay Fitzpatrick, who has been the real pillar of the show, has recently had a couple of successful sales in London.

Coroner Morrison, of Tipperary, held an inquest at Limerick Junction concerning the death of Anne Hanley, the unfortunate young girl who was killed by being run over near the junction by the Killarney express. After hearing the evidence the jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

A very successful exhibition in connection with the Limerick branch of the Irish Industries Association was held at Glenstal, the grounds having been kindly lent for the occasion by the owner, Sir Charles B. Barrington, Bart. There were exhibitions of flowers and cottage gardening, poultry, etc., and at the close the prizes were distributed by Lady Barrington.

The vexed question of dispensary doctors' holidays was settled as far as Dundalk Union is concerned by the adoption by the Board of Guardians of a resolution fixing the period for which doctors' substitutes are to be paid at two weeks each, the resolution further declaring that any doctor requiring further holidays must pay his own substitute for such extra time as he may require.

While a number of the Cork militia were engaged at gun practice with one of the large guns at Fort Camden recently an explosion occurred in which the breech was carried away, killing John Addis and John Martin. The former had his head completely severed from his body. Thomas Mahoney, Michael Murphy, Patrick Armstrong and William Irwin were also injured.

Lord O'Brien, the Lord Chief Justice of Ireland and newly elected peer, is still determined to live out of Dublin. Some years ago he sold his house in Merrion square and rented the Connolly's place, Castletown, now in the hands of an Irish-American millionaire. Newlands, the fine place now taken by Lord O'Brien, is also in Kildare, lately occupied by Col. de Robeck and at one time the residence of a former Lord Chief Justice, Lord Kilwarden.

Andrew O'Donnell, Bridget O'Donnell, John Egan, Michael Gallagher and Pat Towey, residing near Ballaghderreen, were charged with the manslaughter of Patrick Lafferty, of Kilvalloon, on St. Patrick's day. The charge against the girl was withdrawn and the other prisoners pleaded guilty. It appeared that the deceased at the time of the row was suffering from the effects of drink and was challenging every one to fight. The accused were put back.

A number of friends of Station Sergeant Dowd, who was stationed for over twelve years at Kill-o-the-Grange, County Dublin, presented that popular officer with a purse of sovereigns on his retirement, on full pension, from the force. The presentation was ably guided by Valentine Grace, and formed an extremely pleasant and gratifying mark of Sergeant Dowd's kindness of manner and uprightness of character. The old officer acknowledged the presentation in a neat little speech.

On Sunday at Blackrock, a popular seaside resort, a few miles from Dundalk, a little boy named Flanagan, son of a Constable stationed there, was run over by a trap driven by a man named Dorian, and was so severely injured that he died within a few hours. It appears the little fellow was running out from behind a brake, when the trap caught him and knocked him down, when one of the wheels crossed his body. No blame is attached to the driver of the trap, a respectable farmer from Knockbridge.

At the Roscommon assizes, before Justice Johnson, Patrick Quinn was charged with unlawful assembly with arms at Kiltoran, in the County Roscommon, on a second count with unlawfully assembling in like manner and attempting to compel by force, threats and menaces one James Finegan to give up possession of grazing rights, on a third count with causing grievous bodily harm, on a fourth count with common assault and on a fifth count with assaulting Bernard Cooney. After hearing the evidence the jury disagreed and were discharged.

The funeral of the late Alderman Joseph Meade, whose death caused profound sorrow in Dublin and throughout Ireland, took place from St. Michael's church on July 17, his remains being interred in Glasnevin. Alderman Meade, who was at one time Mayor of Dublin, was always closely connected with the Parnellite party and a sterling Nationalist. Few men are more popular with the working-men of the Irish capital, and many of the trades unions and labor organizations turned out to his funeral, which was one of the largest seen for a long time.

Addressing the grand jury of the County Donegal, at the opening of the summer assizes for that county at Lifford, Justice Madden said there were only five bills to go before them, four of which were cases of the most ordinary character. He was happy to observe from the reports laid before him and from an interview with those responsible for the peace of the district that this light calendar represented the general condition of the county with regard to crime. He hoped it might be always his good fortune on returning to their interesting and beautiful county to congratulate them on the continuance of such a very satisfactory and happy state of affairs.

A young Clongowes student named Lynam, who is at Dundalk on a visit to his uncle, P. J. Lynam, County Surveyor, has been the victim of a very regrettable accident. It appears he found an old revolver which had not been used for nearly a score of years, got some cartridges and proceeded to experiment with the weapon. He loaded only one chamber and was turning the others round when the cartridge exploded and the bullet struck him in the head, grazing his skull. He was attended by several medical men, who found that he suffered from concussion of the brain, but fortunately the skull was not fractured and the boy is progressing favorably.

A serious riot took place at Scarva after the conclusion of the sham fight which is annually held in that village. A force of fifty men from the County Meath were drafted in to assist the local force and all were in charge of County Inspector Murphy, of Trim. About 4 o'clock a man was arrested for assaulting the police, and as the prisoner was being taken to the police barracks a crowd of about 1,500 attacked the barracks in a most determined manner with stones and sticks, breaking nearly all the glass in the windows and doing other damage to the premises. County Inspector Loch ordered the batons to be drawn and charged through a side door on the crowd, who fled, but reassembled several times, and it was only after five different baton charges that order was restored. County Inspector Loch was struck with a stone, but fortunately the injury was not serious. Several of the police were also struck with stones, but the injuries were slight.

RECENT DEATHS.

The funeral of Mrs. Hannah Thornton, eighty years old, and for many years residing on Twelfth street, took place Thursday morning from St. Patrick's church. Her death was due to the infirmities incidental to her advanced age.

Mrs. Hannah Head died early Wednesday morning at her residence, 1627 Rowan street, after a lingering illness of consumption. She was in her thirty-seventh year, and her husband and three children remain to mourn her loss. Her funeral took place from St. Patrick's church Thursday morning with solemn requiem mass.

HANDSOME SUM REALIZED.

The outing at Phoenix Hill Monday night for the benefit of Father White's church in Clifton was thoroughly pleasing to all who attended. Though the park was at no time overcrowded the sum realized was very gratifying. Messrs. Owen McCann, Thomas Hannan and Owen Keiran made every one happy.

MOLDERS' EXCURSION.

The annual excursion of Iron Molders' Union No. 16, which takes place at Fern Grove on Monday, August 20, will afford an excellent opportunity for a day of enjoyment and sport. President John Cavanaugh says there will be plenty of amusement. The best of order always prevails, and an excellent band has been secured for the occasion.

According to the School Review only 41.51 per cent. of the pupils in American high schools are boys.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Division 1 meets Tuesday night. Let there be a good turn out.

Many members would like to know what has become of Lawrence Mackey.

Division 4 will soon adopt new rules for the guidance of its relief committee. A division has been organized in Rutland, Vt., with eighty-four charter members.

Judge Shine, the newly elected State President, should visit the Louisville divisions before long.

John Hennessy and Pat Fitzgerald did the right thing for the Kentucky Irish American Wednesday night.

The Hibernian Knights of Providence expended $1,387 for their new uniforms. There are forty-seven members in the company.

Division 4 made another substantial gain in membership this week. Treasurer Harry Brady says this division must continue the leader.

Pat Glenn, the well known Louisville & Nashville railroad supervisor, and John Mangano were initiated into Division 4 Wednesday night.

Will McCarthy, James Dougherty, Pat Donahue and Martin Mullen are now members of Division 4, their transfers having been accepted.

The scheme of a compulsory death benefit for every member of the order was adopted at the convention held at Kingston, Canada, last month.

Dominick Burke, after a long and serious illness, was given a hearty greeting upon his reappearance by the members of his division Wednesday night.

The picnic given at Sugar Grove Wednesday by Division 1 of New Albany was largely attended, and proved the enjoyable event that we had predicted.

Will Miller escaped from his Hibernian friends Wednesday evening. The attraction on the moonlight excursion was irresistible. President Hennessy will get him soon.

John Burke and Pat Manion, members of Division 4, left Thursday afternoon for San Francisco. They carry many messages to Dan Harnedy. While here they were with the Louisville & Nashville.

The feature of the last meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of East Boston was the entertainment and collation which followed the installation of officers. Members of Division 4 were present as guests of the evening.

A picnic will be held at Schlitz Park on Saturday, August 18, under the auspices of the Milwaukee Hibernians. The ladies are taking an active part in assisting the gentlemen in arranging for this year's celebration.

About forty representatives of the order met last month in Trenton with the New Jersey State officers for the purpose of drafting a new constitution and by-laws for the State, and county boards. Every county was represented.

Division 19 of Waltham, Mass., is a remarkably healthy one, having about $2,000 in the treasury and considerable talent among its members, a feature that would insure success to any organization. This division is noted for the excellence of its degree staff, divisions in the surrounding towns often sending requests for its services.

Committees have been appointed by the divisions having their headquarters in the Blackstone Valley, Rhode Island, for holding a field day under their united auspices. The games will be held at Pawtucket on Saturday, September 18. Lively interest will be taken in the games, and promoters are most sanguine about their financial and athletic success.

ANOTHER PROMOTION.

Few men have advanced more rapidly of late than genial Mike Ward, who has been promoted to the membership of the core-room of the National Foundry. This recognition of his worth is gratifying to his fellow workmen, and particularly those with whom he was long associated in the Louisville & Nashville shops.

LEPPING'S TURTLES.

John Lepping, the popular Eighth-street grocer, has a pleasing little surprise in store for his friends this evening. A Louisville gentleman who has been hunting in the South shipped him two fine turtles this week, which he will have served up in excellent style tonight. This will be the real thing.
